

Contents

Preface

1 Introduction

The Public Interest View of Government

The Economic Theory of Regulation

Contrasts Between the Public Interest and Economic Theories

Criteria for Evaluating Alternative Theories

Types of Legislation to be Examined

Study Questions for Chapter 1

2 An Economic Version of the Interest Group Theory of Government

The Demanders of Legislative Benefits

The Suppliers of Legislative Benefits

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 2

3 The Relative Success of Health Associations

Similarity of Members' Interests

The "Free Rider" Problem

Costs of Organizing a Group

Size of the Potential Benefits

Uncertainty

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 3

4 The Demand for Legislation by Health Association

The Motivation of Health Associations

Framework for Analyzing Legislative Behavior

Implications of the Legislative Success of Health Associations

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 4

5 The Reasons for Deregulation

Examples of Deregulated Industries

Reasons for Deregulation

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 5

6 The Emergence of Market Competition in the U.S. Healthcare System

U.S. Medical System Before Market Competition

Emergence of Market Competition

Consequences of Market Competition in Medical Care

The Change in Market Competition

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 6

7 The Control of Externalities: Medical Research, Epidemics, and the Environment

Political Support Maximization as a Basis for Government Intervention
When There Are Externalities

Federal Support for Medical Research

Public Crises as a Cause for Government Intervention

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 7

8 Redistributive Programs

A Theory of Broad Redistributive Programs

Examples of Charitable Redistributive Programs

Examples of Universal Redistributive Programs

Political Power of the Aged

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 8

9 Medicare

The Passage of Medicare

Economic Interests

The Redistributive Effects of Medicare and Medicaid

Concluding Comments

Study Questions for Chapter 9

10 Redistributive Health Legislation, Mid-1980s to 2000

The Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988

President Clinton's Proposal for Healthcare Reform, 1993 to 1994

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996

The Balanced Budget Act of 1997

State Children's Health Insurance Program

The National Bipartisan Commission on the Future of Medicare

The 2000 Presidential Election

Study Questions for Chapter 10

11 The Medicare Modernization Act of 2003

Background on Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage

The Rise of Ideology in Health Policy

The Role of Concentrated Interest Groups

The Politics Underlying a New Medicare Prescription Drug Bill

Summing Up

Looking Ahead

Study Questions for Chapter 11

12 National Health Insurance: Has its Time Come and Gone?

The Objectives of National Health Insurance

Major Groups with a Concentrated Interest in Health Reform

The Prospects for National Health Insurance

Study Questions for Chapter 12

13 The Self-Interest Paradigm and the Politics of Health Legislation

Producer Regulation

Legislation Providing for Medical Research, Protection Against Epidemics, and a Clean Environment

Redistributive Legislation

The Emergence of Ideology in Visible Redistributive Programs

The Legislative Outlook

The Self Interest Paradigm and Economic Efficiency and Equity

Study Questions for Chapter 13

Index